MANY NEW HOMES

CONTRACTS NOW LET AMOUNT TO MORE THAN $50,000.

WORKMEN ALL BUSY

Other Houses Will Be Started Next Fall—Remodeling and Redecorating Business Buildings.

If your mind is in doubt about the building progress in Maryville, just try to engage a contractor, a plumber, a painter, or a mechanic of that class, and see what sort of luck you have.

One of the most substantial growths in the city's history is going on this summer with the building of about twenty new residences and the remodeling of as many more homes and buildings.

There is at least five times as much work of that class this year that there has been at any other time, and every building mechanic is busy for months ahead.

Following close on the various buildings that are now in all stages of construction, from foundation to near completion, are about ten new residences for which contracts are being considered.

Among the new modern houses now under construction or about to be started are:

F. M. Compton, a $5,000 residence on North Main street. Mr. Compton came to Maryville this spring from Burlington Junction.

Dr. A. B. Allen, a $3,000 residence on West First street.

R. P. Hosmer, a $4,000 home on West Third street.

Berney Harris, a $6,000 new home on the site of the old one on South Main street.

Ed Egley, a $2,000 residence on North Main street.

Dr. F. M. Ryan, a fine new home on West Second street.

E. S. Fannon of Bedison, a $5,000 home on North Mulberry street, which he will move into in September.

Mrs. Mary Mook, a $2,000 residence on South Main street.

W. T. Gray, a recently completed $2,000 house on West Fourth street.

Nick Schumacher, a $3,000 home on North Main street.

Irvin Bartram, a $2,500 residence on East Edward.

Mrs. Charles Airy, a $2,000 home at 524 West Fourth street.

D. E. Holmes, a $2,500 home, into which he has just moved on East Seventh street.

In addition to these, which are either just completed or being built, will be $2,000 residences each by.

L. A. Denny and H. J. Becker, in North Maryville, a cottage on West Fourth street by Mrs. N. F. Humber, and a residence on North Main street by Emery Airy.

M. L. Beattie, a new residence on West First street.

E. L. Townsend has improved Terrace Place by adding to the northwest corner a breakfast porch on the first floor and a sleeping porch above that.

Harold Bellows is superintending the erection of a $3,000 residence on his farm, southwest of Maryville.

The uptown business section is receiving a good bit of attention in this building boom. The Toggery has been entirely remodeled and a new front built, and fully ten of the business houses have been repaired and freshened with new paint and improvements this summer.

On West Fourth street Frank Garrett completed the building of two new residences this spring at a cost of $3,250 each, C. C. Corwin put in some extensive improvements in his home on South Main street, and there is not a street in the city which has not been touched by the building boom.

Home From Notre Dame.

Richard Collins returned home Wednesday from Notre Dame university, where he was graduated June 16, receiving an A. M. degree. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis S. Collins, who live north of Maryville.

Visiting in Kansas City.

Miss Nannie Moses left Wednesday night for Kansas City to spend a few days visiting her nephew, Cliff Howendobler.

Guests of the Garretts.

Mrs. Harry Foster and daughters of Chariton, Ia., are visiting at the home of Mrs. Foster's mother, Mrs. W. T. Garrett.

Robert Graham and son of Clyde spent Friday visiting friends in Maryville.

HOMER CROY SEES "26" GAME.

San Francisco Shows the Ex-Maryville-Missourian a New Way to Get Cigars.

In the latest number of Leslie's Weekly is one of Homer Croy's around the world stories. This one is called "Funny Things in San Francisco," and in it Homer describes the western way of getting a dollar's worth of cigars cheaply—if you are lucky. But he says that when he tried it the man behind the counter was the one who always looked happy after the game was over. The following is what he says of the game:

When not pointing out how the Los Angeles boom is about over, the favorite pastime of San Frisco people is playing the "26" game. I had never heard of it until I landed on Market street. It's played at every cigar store in town with half a dozen dice rolled in a leather box. It's a long walk to find a cigar counter that hasn't a "26" attachment—and San Francisco is speckled with cigar stores. A quarter is the amount to roll for. You tell the contented looking man behind the counter what number you are going to roll for—what number on the dice; one, two, three or any number this side of six—then give the dice a shake and roll them out on the green plush. You count the number of times your choice comes up, and in the six throws if you get twenty-six or more you win and get a dollar's worth of cigars. But if you fall under twenty-six the man behind the counter light heartedly picks up the evening paper and turns to the base ball news while a happy contented look floods his face.

At first I was at a loss to understand why the man behind the counter was so contented and happy. After taking a few rolls at a quarter each I understood why he was so contented. While there I didn't see a single counter keeper who looked wan and pinched. And always in trudging wearily to my hotel of an evening I had to keep a sharp eye out that one of them didn't run me down.

THE RACING ASS'N.

DENVER AND BUTTE ORGANIZATIONS RECOGNIZED LOCAL ONE.

ASSURES CLEAN RACES

Any Owner, Jockey or Driver Barred From One is Ineligible to Enter Others.

The races that will be held here the first week in September in connection with the county fair will bring to Maryville once more a sport that has not been seen here for many years. And these races will be clean, run under rigid rules and competed for by good horses. The fact that Maryville belongs to a racing association makes it possible to put on better races than are ordinarily seen at county fairs.

The association composed of towns of Maryville, Parnell and Creston, Ia., has received the recognition of the Denver, Col., Racing association and the Butte, Mont., Racing association. This means that all three recognize the rulings established by the others.

In addition the Sioux City association and the racing department of the Des Moines state fair are favorably impressed with this idea, and each of the named associations will co-operate and respect the by-laws and rules established by the others to the extent of recognizing disbarments or rulings passed by any of the associations.

In other words, if any horseman, jockey or driver participates in any questionable tactics relative to the races and the same is discovered by the judges, the offenders will be denied the privilege of racing or taking any part whatever in any events, given under the jurisdiction or management of any of the above racing and fair organizations, until after a thorough investigation he is exonerated.

This will be a special incentive to real good, clean and up-to-date racing, will eliminate the undesirable element, and establish racing and fair associations on a basis that will deserve commendation and the unanimous public support.

M. J. Stevens, manager of the Maryville, Parnell, Creston association, and H. E. Jones, president of the Parnell Racing association, are members of the board of stewards of the new organization.

TRAINING SCHOOL CLOSES.

Children Gave Exercises in Front of Normal Building This Morning—Picnic in the Park.

The entire Normal school dismissed this morning to witness the closing exercises of the training school pupils which were held on the campus in front of the building.

The kindergarten children, under the direction of Miss Margaret Miller, first gave a march and tambourine drill. Then the pupils of the fifth grade and above gave wand drills and Indian club drills. After this the training school pupils, carrying flags and singing songs, marched to the Normal park, where they were given a picnic luncheon by their teachers.

After the parade the training school children went to the Chautauqua park, where they engaged in games and also had a few track events, consisting of a potato race, an obstacle race, a three-legged race, a 50-yard dash for the seventh and eighth grade girls and a free-for-all 50-yard dash.

The parents of many of the children attended these exercises and took lunch with them afterward.

The supervisors of the training school, Misses Beulah Bruner, Carrie Hopkins, LaRue Kemp, Margaret Miller and Fannie Hope were hostesses to Dr. G. D. Strayer, Dean George H. Colbert, N. G. Neale and the student teachers who have taught in the training school during the past quarter.

After the luncheon hour there was an indoor base ball game between two girls teams.

"LEARN TO PLAY"

DR. G. D. STRAYER SAYS WE LET WORK ABSORB US.

A BAD SCHOOL SYSTEM

Pupils' Avocations Are Neglected—The Biggest Men All Have Their Pastimes.

"Most Americans do not know how to play," said Dr. G. D. Strayer of the teachers college of Columbia university, New York, this morning in an address to the Normal school students. The text for Dr. Strayer's discourse might be said to be, "Have a sane avocation." The Americans are prone to develop a marked ability in their chosen vocation and to pursue that to the exclusion of all things else This creates a narrow mindedness which precludes the enjoyment of many of the best and most beautiful things in life.

"Some of the biggest men in their chosen professions," said Dr. Strayer, naming a number of instances, "are pursuing some avocation, farming, writing literature, truck gardening and numerous other things, during their spare hours."

Dr. Strayer holds that the men of today are coming more and more to realize that to be of the greatest use to humanity they must not carry on their chosen work to the point of exhaustion.

The problem of the spare hours then, should not be to be amused but to engage in some avocation which will form a source of both recreation and pleasure. The American people in the search for amusement do not delve deep enough, but allow their literary tastes to be satisfied by the city newspapers and the 15-cent magazines, and when they go to the theater they demand vaudeville or a musical comedy.

"Something is radically wrong with our school systems," said Dr. Strayer, "when they are content to teach the mere curriculum and do not provide some sane avocation for the child's after-life. It should be the duty of the teacher, then, to not only teach the content of the subjects, but to make them carry over into real life."

IMPROVING SCHOOL YARDS.

The grounds of the Washington school are being cleaned and leveled this week and all necessary work for making the yard attractive and clean is being done. The school board is contemplating some improvements which may be done later in the summer.

Prof. Null and his wife have recently been visiting his parents in this city and his sister, Mrs. R. D. Corken of Burlington Junction.

MAY STOP BAND CONCERTS.

Persons Must Keep Off the Grass in the Court House Yard if They Wish Music to Continue.

Unless the people of Maryville keep off the grass in the court house yard while listening to the weekly concerts the concerts will be stopped. This is the order of the county court, and it has authorized W. A. Townsend, janitor, to see that it is obeyed.

The county has gone to a great deal of expense to beautify the court house yard this summer. The grass is all new sod, and it is requiring much care and attention to keep it alive through the heat of the summer. It will not stand being tramped over as old, firmly rooted grass will, and a few such crowds as the one that attended last night's concert and walked all over the grass would soon kill it.

It is to give the grass a chance to become firmly rooted that the court has made the order for people to keep off it, and unless they do the use of the band stand will be taken away at once and the concerts either will have to stop or be held some place else.

Not Going to Celebrate.

The Post and Mayor J. A. Barr have received a number of inquiries from other towns asking if Burlington Junction was going to celebrate July 4 this year. To our knowledge it is not. At least no arrangements have been made and no one has talked a celebration this year. One of the Maryville papers stated last week that Burlington Junction would celebrate the Fourth, and the report probably got its start in this way.—Burlington Junction Post.

WANTS TO PAVE

MAYOR WOULD LIKE TO SEE MORE WORK ON STREETS.

RECOMMENDS NEW KIND

Goes to Shenandoah to Investigate Asphaltic Concrete and Finds It is Satisfactory.

Mayor Wright would like to see Maryville put in some more paving, and last night he went with Street Commissioner F. L. Flynt to Shenandoah, Ia., to investigate the paving there. A pavement called asphaltic concrete has been used very successfully in Shenandoah for four or five years, and it was to investigate that in particular that Mr. Wright and Mr. Flynt went there. They returned this noon.

"The asphaltic concrete pavements of Shenandoah are very satisfactory," the mayor said, "but it is not a kind of pavement that could be put down in Maryville this summer. It has to be laid in hot weather, and as it would take at least two months for the council to take the necessary legal steps to provide for any paving, it would be too late to put down asphaltic concrete."

This kind of pavement is made with a concrete base covered with a top surface of a mixture of asphalt and flint rock. This makes a very smooth and enduring pavement. The concrete base and the flint rock make it wear, and the asphalt gives a resiliency that makes it easier for the horses that travel over it and does away with a great deal of the noise.

"Some of these pavements in Shenandoah have been down four years, and they show very little more wear than those that have been down but a year," Mr. Wright said. "They make an excellent street for the residence districts. They are much less noisy than the brick streets, are smoother and can be kept cleaner. This kind of pavement runs in front of some of their business houses and factories, and where teams and heavy trucks have stood on it I could not see that it had worn."

The cost of the asphaltic concrete pavement is practically the same as that of brick.

Mr. Wright says that the people of Maryville cannot expect to get any paving done for a reasonable price unless a great deal is done at once. Contractors cannot afford to come here just to pave a few blocks.

Mr. Wright is in favor of an extensive paving campaign, but unless the people want it, it cannot be done. The Iowa law, he says, is different and makes it possible for the councils to order in paving despite the remonstrances of property owners.

READY TO LEND FARMERS MONEY

National Banks Have About $500,000,000 Available For Farm Mortgages Under Federal Reserve Act.

Comptroller Williams estimates that about $500,000,000 in national banks throughout the United States is available for farm mortgage loans under the provision of the federal reserve act making it possible for national banking associations to lend money on improved farm lands.

Scores of inquiries concerning the provision reach the treasury department daily and there does not seem to be a general understanding that the farm loans clause of the act is now in force and makes it possible for national banks to make farm loans before the formal organization of the federal reserve board.

The estimate of Comptroller Williams is based on reports showing the capital stock and surplus of national banks to be 1,777 million dollars. Twenty-five per cent of this amount, or $444,250,000, is available for farm loans. Furthermore, the federal reserve act provides that national banks may grant farm loans up to 33 1-3 per cent of their time deposits.

Banks with large deposits will be able to far exceed the sum they could lend on farms under the 25 per cent clause, and the estimate of Mr. Williams is believed to be conservative.

Farm loans under this act are not to be made for longer than five years, and the amount of each loan is not to exceed 50 per cent of the actual value of the farm offered as security.

READING FOUR LINES AT ONCE.

Some Schools Are Teaching Children to Grasp Meaning of Whole Paragraph at a Glance.

Thomas A. Edison says he can read four lines at once. He covers the daily paper from headlines to sports in a very few moments. And he says he gets it all! Roosevelt says he can. That's the way he does all his reading. It explains how he accomplishes an incredible amount of work in a day.

And every school child soon will be able to!

This marvelous reading-at-a-glance method is being taught in many progressive schools. In another generation all readers will travel like a flash over the printed page, taking in four whole lines at every glance, and learning twice as much in half the time that they now give to reading!

At least, that is what some educators tell us.

You'd better learn the quick reading method.

Ella Flagg Young, superintendent of the Chicago public schools, and America's greatest woman educator, explains the method in this way:

"We teach the quick reading system in Chicago schools, and I believe it is taught in all progressive schools. It's but one of many efforts teachers are making to cut away non-essentials in education.

"The sentence is the unit of thought; a word is not a thought at all and it's the thought, the gist of the sentence we are trying to grasp with eye and mind. The eye can be trained with a little practice, to see the whole sentence instead of the word, and in time a paragraph may be read pust as easily. The written page pictures an idea or a thought; we try to see the picture, but we do not waste time on its verbal frame.

"It's the logical way to read, in line with modern progress.

"The newspapers help us to acquire this facility. The newspaper column is narrow, and to cross it the eye travels in so small an orbit that it takes in sentences and even paragraphs without effort.

"I have all of our Chicago pamphlets printed in columns of newspaper width. When all books and magazines are printed that width, we can all keep pace with Edison and Roosevelt."

And then, perhaps, we all will be consulting eye specialists at little sooner than we do now!

Cuts 70 Acres of 35-Bushel Wheat.

James Vert is cutting the wheat on his farm, northwest of Maryville, and he is getting a very good crop. Last spring he thought he was going to lose the entire seventy acres and was about to plow it under when he decided to let it stand. It has grown to a good height so there will be plenty of straw, the heads are large and well filled and it will yield thirty-five bushels to the acre, Mr. Vert thinks.

THE BATTLE JUST BEGUN

As in 1912, With the Barnes-Penrose-Lorimer Leaders, It is Rule or Ruin the Party.

The exultant anticipations of the Barnes-Penrose-Lorimer leaders that the certain victory which they predict for the Republican party next fall will mean their victory, too, make it clear that their old-time determination to rule or ruin the party has not been lessened by defeat.

They are the men who by their course in the Republican national convention of 1912 forced such an issue on Republican voters, and in the election of that year found that a majority of the party membership preferred any fate to rule by them.

Still defiant of party sentiment and determined to cling to party control, they are now forcing the same issue to the front for the campaign of 1914.

A Republican victory must be their victory—or there will be no victory, if they can prevent it.

No other interpretation can possibly be placed upon the insistence of Penrose in Pennsylvania to continue as the party senator and boss, of Gallinger in New Hampshire to do the same thing, of the Lorimer-Cannon men in Illinois and Foraker in Ohio. Even Mr. Barnes is lured by the promise of Republican victory to deny that he ever intended to retire from the Republican state committee. He proposes to stick.

In other states the lesser factors in the boss system which Penrose and Barnes typify are also gathering courage to assert openly their purpose to make the issue in their localities a choice between keeping the Republican party out of power or restoring it to power with them in control.

They believe that both the Democratic and the Progressive parties are going down this fall before the triumphant Republican party.

They believe the popular revolt against prevailing industrial conditions will so mass the voters of the country behind the Republican party that, even with one hand tied behind its back, it can lick all opponents, singly or together.

They believe therefore that the day of resurrection has come to them, too. They are resuming their former places of prominence in campaign preliminaries so that all may take notice that they are back at the old stand and propose to remain there.

As in 1912, however, these men are blinded by their own selfish purposes.

They are as far from an accurate estimate of the real Republican thought of today as they were two years ago. Then they were four and a quarter million votes out of the way.

Looking backward instead of forward narrowly instead of broadly, they figured at that time that with control of the organization and of the election machinery and the backing of the "interests," they could pull the Republican party through to the only kind of success they desired it to have—success that meant their continued domination.

The inspiring Republican electoral vote of 336 in 1904 and of 321 in 1908, with practically every Northern state responding to the party call, had no other meaning to these scheming party bosses than greater opportunity to burden the party with their wrongdoing.

It did not seem possible to them, as they plotted against the expressed will of the party, that the Republican rank and file would form an unorganized army of revolt greater in numbers than those who remained in line, deploring and denouncing the Chicago theft but timidly clinging to a boss ridden party organization because of loyalty to its past.

Neither Barnes or Penrose anticipated the stunning blow they were to receive from the national ballot box, because they did not value the greatest asset the Republican party ever had—public confidence.

They cast it aside as of small consequence against their power of manipulation. Yet it cost the party candidates 4¼ million votes and left only Utah and Vermont in the column of Republican states, with a meager fifteen electoral votes.

Nothing less serious than the menace of a party control corrupted by its own lust for power and its alliance with interests opposed to the people's interests could have turned so many voters from a party to which they were devoted.

Do Penrose and Barnes believe that men so deeply stirred by repugnance to selfish bossism are content to vote once in protest and then meekly acquiesce?

Penrose and Gallinger would have been swept out of public place by an indignant Republican constituency had they been candidates in 1912. It was their good fortune that their terms in the Senate did not expire then.

They stand for precisely the same things today as they did then, and with precisely the same Tweedlike and contemptuous inquiry to those who oppose them—what are you going to do about it?

It will not be the Republican party of glorious memory that will go back to power if such men are the direct beneficiaries of its future triumphs at the polls—Barnes, Penrose and Gallinger will become powerful, but not the old party of patriotic purposes.

The people, however, are not helpless to prevent this effort of the discredited bosses to rehabilitate themselves.

A Republican organization whose victories would mean Barnes victories, Penrose victories and Lorimer victories will find that rank and file Republicans have not fought so valiantly against privilege of surrendering now. The domination by the "interests" for the battle, though two years old, has only begun.—New York Mail.

Charles F. Murphy promised Mrs. Harriot Stanton Blatch that if she came to Tammany Hall and bring to his help in the fight for woman suffrage he would listen. He did not say he would yield. The promise was made while the Democratic conference was in session. When Mrs. Blatch finished her speech from the platform she walked down the center aisle and looked Mr. Murphy severely in the eye. BOSTON BEAUTY SPECIALIST TO VISIT MARYVILLE

Ed G. Orear Looks Forward to Large Crowds During Her Week's Stay at the Rexall Store

Will Give Number of Free Facial Massages and Personal Advice in Your Home by Appointment.

An opportunity which is sure to prove as beneficial as it is rare will be afforded the women of Maryville and vicinity when Mrs. H. L. Long, the much talked of Beauty Specialist, now wtouring Missouri as representative of the United Drug Company of Boston—creators of the many Harmony Beauty Requisites and equally well known toilet preparations, starts her public demonstrations for the week commencing Monday, June 29, as the guest of Mr. E. G. Orear, proprietor of the Rexall Store and sole distributor of the Harmony Toilet Products in Maryville.

Mrs. Long contends that it is the privilege of every woman to take advantage of anything that will tend to lend a touch of added beauty to the skin; but, says Mrs. Long, "extreme care should be exercised to choose only such preparations that really do help nature in the beautifying of your complexion.

"Of course no one will question the assertion that the woman with the clean, well preserved skin is a much admired person anywhere," and, she continues, "if the woman of today would only take the care to treat the skin to the benefits of a good massage that she takes in reading the household section of the paper, we would see fewer wrinkles, and more, yet, a great many more women young at fifty."

We have no doubt about Mrs. Long's ability to offer the women of Maryville some very valuable advice, and Mr. Orear will, we feel sure, have a store full of the "fairer sex" during Mrs. Long's stay at The Rexall Store.

Mr. Orear tells us that he has a real beauty treat in store for the women of Maryville, so you'd better get ready for Mrs. Long's arrival, ladies. —Advertisement.

VILLA'S TRIUMPH BRILLIANT ONE

Drives From Zacatecas Forces Greatly Exceeding Own.

STREET FIGHTING VERY SEVERE

Federal Defenders Make Desperate Resistance to Attack of Invading Constitutionalist Army — Thousands Dead and Wounded.

Zacatecas, Mex., June 26.—According to official estimates General Villa drove from Zacatecas a force which greatly exceeded his own. Between 13,000 and 14,000 federals defended the city, while the Constitutionalists, though numbering about 15,000, could employ little more than one-half their number in the attacks of four days, which resulted in victory for the Villa troops, the taking of hundreds of prisoners and munitions and the demoralized retreat of the remnants of General Barron's army.

It was asserted by leaders here that the last act of General Barron was to blow up the building in which Attorney Majaolanes lives. He, his wife and eight children perished. The youngest child returned to find the demolished house and the bodies of her parents, brothers and sisters.

The street fighting in Zacatecas was the most severe of the revolution. The federals fought from street to street, from house top to house top, and many Constitutionalists paid with their lives for their bravery. Many of the federals threw away their uniforms and began sniping the invaders. Those who pleaded guilty of this offense were shot after being captured. The federals, already on the retreat, blew up a mine in the custom house without warning the women and children of their intentions. Many Constitutionalists who had entered the building were buried in the wreck of the three story structure.

Report of Villa.

Zacatecas, Mexico, June 26.—General Villa gave the following account of the battle of Zacatecas:

"The enemy, numbering 14,000, commanded by Medina Barron and five other generals, were defeated completely by my forces, which were aided effectively by General Natera's men. Up to this moment we have 5,000 prisoners, twelve cannon, nine trains, two carloads of rifle ammunition and cannon shells and nearly 6,000 Mauser rifles and a large quantity of provisions and other munitions of war. The enemy who escaped went in the direction of Azuas Calientes, after dynamiting the postoffice, the state treasurer's office and the stamp revenue office buildings. The explosions killed many of our men and destroyed part of the city. The dead of the enemy number about 4,000 and 2,000 wounded.

"On our part we cannot tell the losses of the battle, which lasted for five consecutive days, but I think there are not more than 500 dead and 800 wounded. Among the latter are Generals Herrera and Rodriguez, who were severely wounded. Our artillery operated splendidly. The federals destroyed every fort, the last being El Grillo."

Mediators Will Mark Time.

Niagara Falls, Ont., June 26.—As it will probably be several days before the mediators are called upon to take any further action in relation to the Mexican problem, Ambassador Da Gama of Brazil left here to join Mrs. Da Gama at Long Branch, N. J., for a few days. Minister Suarez will depart [illegible] Naon of Argentina will remain here to greet the Constitutionalist representatives and introduce them to the Huerta delegates, should this be necessary.

HEIRESSES IN BOTH CAMPS

Redmond Would Stop Gun Running From America to Ulster.

London, June 26.—Premier Asquith was asked to take special steps to prevent arms entering Ireland from the United States in response to the appeal of John E. Redmond, leader of the Irish Nationalists.

David Lloyd George, chancellor of the exchequer, who replied on behalf of the premier, declined to make any representations on the subject to the American government.

Arthur Lynch, a Nationalist member, then tried to carry the war into the Unionist camp by inviting Lloyd George to ascertain how much money American heiresses had furnished to foment civil war in Ireland, but hilarious shouts from the opposition of "where is Harcourt," reminded him there were American heiresses in both camps.

Militants Cause Damage to Church.

Belfast, Ireland, June 26.—An arson squad of suffragettes caused extensive damage to the Episcopal church at Ballylessen, near here. The destruction of the church was averted only by the arrival of the sexton, who succeeded in extinguishing the blaze. The woodwork of the building had been thoroughly drenched with petroleum.

Christofferson Flies Over Mt. Whitney.

Independence, Cal., June 26.—Silas Christofferson, aviator, in a biplane flew over the peak of Mount Whitney, 14,898 feet high. He attained an altitude estimated at more than 16,000 feet and established, it is contended, a new American altitude record.

NEARLY HALF OF OLD WITCH CITY BURNS

Fire In Salem, Mass., Causes Loss of $20,000,000.

Salem, Mass., June 26.—Nearly half of this city was devastated by a fire that caused an estimated loss of $20,000,000; destroyed 1,000 buildings, including a score of manufacturing factories, and made 10,000 of the 45,000 residents homeless.

Starting as the result of an explosion in the Korn Leather company's plant, the flames spread in all directions defying all efforts of the firemen.

Block after block was dynamited, but the fire, checked in one direction, was driven by shifting winds into new paths of destruction. At the start the water pressure was low and when the fight became desperate a great water main near Beverly bridge broke, leaving the firemen practically helpless.

Meanwhile calls for assistance were rushed to nearby cities and an enormous quantity of apparatus responded, only to find that there was no water to check the progress of the flames.

From historic Gallows hill, where alleged witches were hanged 200 years ago, the fire spread quickly through the shoe and leather manufacturing district, then south to the Boston and Maine railroad tracks at Jefferson avenue and eastward to the water front.

Firebrands carried into the business section to the north started a second fire at North street. A little later a tank of the Standard Oil company in the extreme northwest of the city was ablaze and presently a third fire was levelling the buildings there.

The burned buildings included the plants of a score of manufacturing companies, among them the big factory of the Naumkeag cotton mills, twice as many business places, St. Joseph's Roman Catholic church, recently erected at a cost of $250,000, the orphan asylum and more than 200 residences and tenement buildings.

The entire section occupied by the Italian and Greek colonies was devastated. Most of the 2,000 persons who had homes in that district were housed temporarily at the Young Men's Christian association building, the state armory, police stations and other public buildings.

All roads leading out of the city were crowded with refugees on foot.

NO FUSION IN NEW YORK

Pressure Brought to Bear on T. R. to Run For Governor.

Oyster Bay, June 26.—Theodore Roosevelt and his leading associates finally settled questions which, it is felt, will decide the fate of the Progressive party in New York state this fall. After it was all over Colonel Roosevelt made a statement setting forth their decisions. Here are the main points:

There will be no fusion in New York state. A straight Progressive ticket will be put in the field.

District Attorney Charles S. Whitman of New York, who has been talked of as a possible nominee of both the Republican and Progressive parties, was repudiated by Colonel Roosevelt.

Colonel Roosevelt's nomination for the governorship is being urged upon him by virtually all the Progressive leaders, in spite of his repeated statement that he would not run. The leaders said they still had hopes. The colonel declined to deny again that he would run.

Millions of Flies Caught In St. Louis.

St. Louis, June 26.—Thirty-seven gallons of flies have been captured this month by the St. Louis department of health in twenty-four traps set in different parts of the city. It was figured that 5,653,000 flies were captured. The flies captured include [illegible] which carries infantile paralysis germs from "limber [illegible] and the species that carries tuberculosis and typhoid germs.

THE ORIGIN OF "EL DORADO."

Name Means "The Gold One," and Comes From Ceremony of Ancient American Tribe.

The lure of gold has ever been the basis for brave exploits and bold adventure, and often about it has been woven the enticing web of mystery and myth to add to the zest of its pursuit. The ancient Argonauts sailed in search of the mythical Golden Fleece, while the golden apples of the mysterious Hesperides lured on the giant Hercules. The Portuguese as early as the middle of the fifteenth century brought gold from the west coast of Africa, and it was to find a sea route to the gold and spice laden shores of the far east that Vasco da Gama sailed around the Cape of Good Hope and Columbus finally embarked to venture into unknown seas upon that memorable voyage of 1492.

The discovery of the new world but added a new stimulus to the unceasing, restless search for wealth, and in the marvelous tales of pearls and jewels, rare and glittering golden ornaments decorating simple savages who knew but little of their value, the adventurous and credulous conquistadores saw a glorious land of promise.

Among the most enticing of these tales was the one the Coquetios Indians told the earliest settlers of the colony of Coro, established by Juan de Ampues in 1527 on the narrow isthmus that connects the peninsula of Paraguana with the mainland about the Lake of Maracaybo in Venezuela.

According to their stories, a tribe of fierce but wealthy Indians dwelt in the mountains some distance to the south, with whom gold was so abundant that they powdered the whole body of their chief with its dust. And thus was started the tale of "El Dorado," the gilded one, a tale which in its repeated telling grew into most wonderful fiction, but which was founded in its first instance on a fact, according to the sketch of the life and work of the late Adolph Bandelier, by Edward Albes, in the June number of the Monthly Bulletin of the Pan American Union, Washington, D. C. Bandelier, it seems, established the fact that "a chieftain who was gilded for a certain ceremonial occasion once really existed on the table land of Bogota, in the province of Cundinamarca, in the heart of New Granada.

On this high plain dwelt the agricultural village Indians known as the Muysca. They wove cotton cloth, mined emeralds, and also salt. These products were exchanged for the gold of other tribes, and by thrift and industry the precious metal was accumulated to superfluity on the table land of Bogota. On the plateau were several lakes which were regarded by the Muyscas as holy places. Each of them was the supposed seat of a special divinity, to which gold and emeralds were offered by throwing them into the water. Among these the Lake of Guatavita became famous. Near the lake lay the village of Guatavita, whose inhabitants about the year 1490 constituted an independent tribe. A legend was current among them that the wife of one of their earlier chiefs had thrown herself into the water to avoid a punishment, and had subsequently become the goddess of the lake.

When a new chief of Guatavita was chosen an imposing ceremonial was observed. The male population marched out in a long procession to the lake. In front walked wailing men, nude, their bodies painted with red ochre, the sign of mourning. Groups followed, richly decorated with gold and emeralds, their heads adorned with feathers, and braves clothed in jaugar skins. Some went uttering joyful shouts, others blew on horns, pipes, and conchs. There were priests in long, black robes, adorned with white crosses, and tall black caps. Behind them came the nobles of the tribe and chief priests, bearing the newly elected chieftain upon a barrow hung with disks of gold. His naked body was an-nointed with resinous gums and covered all over with gold dust. This was the gilded man.

Arrived at the shore, the gilded man and his companions stepped upon a balsa and proceeded upon it to the middle of the lake. There the chief plunged into the water and washed off his metallic covering, while the assembled company, with shouts and sound of instruments, threw in the gold and jewels brought as offerings. The ceremony completed, the chief returned to the shore and all went back to the village to close the festival with dancing and feasting. Thus was the occasional ceremonial of a primitive tribe of Indians the real basis of a legend which passed from tongue to tongue until it lured men from far beyond the seas with the vain hope of conquest and of spoils.

TO SHIP MILK IN HOT WEATHER

Direction for the Best Method of Transportation in Order to Reduce Bacteria.

With the approach of hot weather the U. S. Department of Agriculture, is warning dairymen again not to hold their milk before shipping it to market.

A practice prevalent in some places is to take the morning milk, combine it with afternoon milk of the same day and ship this combination early the following morning. This means that the morning milk is kept through the heat of the day. When it reaches the consumer, 24 hours or more old, the bacteriological count is high. This explains, the department experts say, why milk from dairies in which all the conditions appear to be excellent is frequently found to be bacteriologically bad.

The remedy recommended by the department is to hold the afternoon milk, properly cooled, through the cooler hours of the night, and ship it the next morning milk, also properly cooled, without mixing the two. It is of course essential to this plan that the thrain schedules be adapted to it, but it is felt that when the importance of the change is fully recognized this difficulty will be overcome. Such procedure in cooling and handling would materially reduce the possibility of sour milk reaching the markets.

Shippers are also urged by the department to see that the milk is thoroughly cooled, as an important step in keeping its bacteriological count low.

A FARMER'S CREED.

Farm Boy and Girl Are Best Crops, 100 Bushels Corn and 50 Bushels of Wheat Possible.

The following creed is by Frank I. Mann, in Dry Farming and Rural Homes:

I believe in a permanent agriculture, a soil that will grow richer rather than poorer from year to year.

I believe in 100-bushel corn and in 50-bushel wheat, and I shall not be satisfied with anything less.

I believe that the only good weed is a dead weed, and that a clean farm is as important as a clean conscience.

I believe in the farm boy and the farm girl, the farmer's best crops, the future's best hope.

I believe in the farm woman, and will do all in my power to make her life easier and happier.

I believe in a country school that prepares for a country life, and a country church that teaches its people to love deeply and live honorably.

I believe in community spirit, a pride in home and neighbors and I will do my part to make my community the best in the state.

I believe in the farmer, I believe in farm life, I believe in the inspiration of the open country.

I am proud to be a farmer, and I will try earnestly to be worthy of the name.

PREDICTS BOOM IN BUSINESS

Wilson Sees Prosperity Under New Constitution of Freedom.

ON VERGE OF GREAT REVIVAL.

President Makes Final Answer to Opponents of Regulation—No Postponement of Anti-Trust Legislation. Speaks to Virginia Editors.

Washington, June 26.—Addressing a party of Virginia editors at the White House, President Wilson declared that "a new constitution of freedom for business" is the object of the administration trust legislation program.

He predicted the country was on the verge of a great business revival. The president added that a temporary business depression at present was sure to pass as soon as business realized that the anti-trust legislation is sure to be enacted.

For ten years, the president said, business had been uneasy because of attacks on it. He contended that his administration was the first in years that had been the real friend of business, and he added that his administration was going to prove its friendship by clearing away all anxiety among business men over what was to come.

The president spoke with great earnestness. Gesturing vigorously, he declared that through governmental agencies and through an extensive correspondence he believed the administration to be better able to judge business conditions than any one else in the country. He compared the condition of business to a man about to undergo an operation and who fears that it will be a capital one. He added that it had become apparent that only minor operations were necessary and that it would be dangerous to postpone them.

Will Go Ahead With Program.

Nothing would be more unfair to business, the president declared, than to keep it guessing. He said the administration was in power with a definite program of corrective legislation, and that the administration was ready and determined to go ahead with its program. During the pendency of the tariff and currency bills, he said, business shivered, but there were no serious effects. He declared there was no reason to think the result would be more serious after the anti-trust bills are passed.

"Some people think the anti-trust legislation will be postponed," said the president, as he advanced a step. "Well, it will not be postponed."

His jaws snapped. "It will not be postponed because we are the real friends of business, and are ready to give busines its new constitution of freedom.

"If we stop now there would be another long period of agitation, with its resulting dangers to business. But we are not going to face that danger; we are going ahead with our program now, and if the reports I received are correct it will not take us very long to finish our work."

CLAFLIN COMPANY FAILS

Receiver is Appointed For Big Dry Goods Firm.

New York, June 26.—The largest mercantile failure in the history of the United States was precipitated when receivers were appointed for the H. B. Claflin company of this city. The company, it is estimated, owes more than $30,000,000, which at the present time it is unable to pay. Its assets are said to be worth $44,000,000.

John Claflin, head of the company, is owner of a chain of nearly thirty other dry goods enterprises throughout the country, which are involved in the failure. Receivers for several of these were named and similar action, it was announced, would be taken in the case of the rest. Their business will be continued under receiver's management until their financial affairs have been adjusted.

From 3,000 to 5,000 banks in all parts of the United States compose the bulk of the Claflin creditors.

According to Mr. Claflin, the failure was due to the unprecedented shifting of trade centers in New York city, which compelled the concern to rely mainly upon its retail stores in other cities for its profits.

"Their rapidly extending business," he said, "occasioned large capital requirements, which we have not been able to meet."

The crash came after vain efforts had been made by Mr. Claflin to induce J. P. Morgan & Co. and other Wall street banking interests to loan him money to tide over his embarrassment.

Chase at once retired from the field.

MOYER CLOSELY GUARDED

Officials at Helena Believe Gunmen Are Seeking His Life.

Helena, Mont., June 26.—Police and sheriff's officials are convinced that gunmen from Butte are in Helena for the purpose of assassinating Charles H. Moyer, president of the Western Federation of Miners, who fled from Butte during the rioting in that city. Three suspects were placed under arrest here and locked up in the county jail and the police and sheriff's forces are endeavoring to locate a fourth.

Moyer is being closely guarded by sheriff's deputies and by members of the refugee colony of Butte miners, who accompanied him to Helena.

MANY NEW HOMES

CONTRACTS NOW LET AMOUNT TO MORE THAN $50,000.

WORKMEN ALL BUSY

Other Houses Will Be Started Next Fall—Remodeling and Redecorating Business Buildings.

If your mind is in doubt about the building progress in Maryville, just try to engage a contractor, a plumber, a painter, or a mechanic of that class, and see what sort of luck you have.

One of the most substantial growths in the city's history is going on this summer with the building of about twenty new residences and the remodeling of as many more homes and buildings.

There is at least five times as much work of that class this year that there has been at any other time, and every building mechanic is busy for months ahead.

Following close on the various buildings that are now in all stages of construction, from foundation to near completion, are about ten new residences for which contracts are being considered.

Among the new modern houses now under construction or about to be started are:

F. M. Compton, a $5,000 residence on North Main street. Mr. Compton came to Maryville this spring from Burlington Junction.

Dr. A. B. Allen, a $3,000 residence on West First street.

R. P. Hosmer, a $4,000 home on West Third street.

Berney Harris, a $6,000 new home on the site of the old one on South Main street.

Ed Egley, a $2,000 residence on North Main street.

Dr. F. M. Ryan, a fine new home on West Second street.

E. S. Fannon of Bedison, a $5,000 home on North Mulberry street, which he will move into in September.

Mrs. Mary Mook, a $2,000 residence on South Main street.

W. T. Gray, a recently completed $2,000 house on West Fourth street.

Nick Schumacher, a $3,000 home on North Main street.

Irvin Bartram, a $2,500 residence on East Edward.

Mrs. Charles Airy, a $2,000 home at 524 West Fourth street.

D. E. Holmes, a $2,500 home, into which he has just moved on East Seventh street.

In addition to these, which are either just completed or being built, will be $2,000 residences each by.

L. A. Denny and H. J. Becker, in North Maryville, a cottage on West Fourth street by Mrs. N. F. Humber, and a residence on North Main street by Emery Airy.

M. L. Beattie, a new residence on West First street.

E. L. Townsend has improved Terrace Place by adding to the northwest corner a breakfast porch on the first floor and a sleeping porch above that.

Harold Bellows is superintending the erection of a $3,000 residence on his farm, southwest of Maryville.

The uptown business section is receiving a good bit of attention in this building boom. The Toggery has been entirely remodeled and a new front built, and fully ten of the business houses have been repaired and freshened with new paint and improvements this summer.

On West Fourth street Frank Garrett completed the building of two new residences this spring at a cost of $3,250 each, C. C. Corwin put in some extensive improvements in his home on South Main street, and there is not a street in the city which has not been touched by the building boom.

HOMER CROY SEES "26" GAME.

San Francisco Shows the Ex-Maryville-Missourian a New Way to Get Cigars.

In the latest number of Leslie's Weekly is one of Homer Croy's around the world stories. This one is called "Funny Things in San Francisco," and in it Homer describes the western way of getting a dollar's worth of cigars cheaply—if you are lucky. But he says that when he tried it the man behind the counter was the one who always looked happy after the game was over. The following is what he says of the game:

When not pointing out how the Los Angeles boom is about over, the favorite pastime of San Frisco people is playing the "26" game. I had never heard of it until I landed on Market street. It's played at every cigar store in town with half a dozen dice rolled in a leather box. It's a long walk to find a cigar counter that hasn't a "26" attachment—and San Francisco is speckled with cigar stores. A quarter is the amount to roll for. You tell the contented looking man behind the counter what number you are going to roll for—what number on the dice; one, two, three or any number this side of six—then give the dice a shake and roll them out on the green plush. You count the number of times your choice comes up, and in the six throws if you get twenty-six or more you win and get a dollar's worth of cigars. But if you fall under twenty-six the man behind the counter light heartedly picks up the evening paper and turns to the base ball news while a happy contented look floods his face.

At first I was at a loss to understand why the man behind the counter was so contented and happy. After taking a few rolls at a quarter each I understood why he was so contented. While there I didn't see a single counter keeper who looked wan and pinched. And always in trudging wearily to my hotel of an evening I had to keep a sharp eye out that one of them didn't run me down.

THE RACING ASS'N.

DENVER AND BUTTE ORGANIZATIONS RECOGNIZED LOCAL ONE.

ASSURES CLEAN RACES

Any Owner, Jockey or Driver Barred From One is Ineligible to Enter Others.

The races that will be held here the first week in September in connection with the county fair will bring to Maryville once more a sport that has not been seen here for many years. And these races will be clean, run under rigid rules and competed for by good horses. The fact that Maryville belongs to a racing association makes it possible to put on better races than are ordinarily seen at county fairs.

The association composed of towns of Maryville, Parnell and Creston, Ia., has received the recognition of the Denver, Col., Racing association and the Butte, Mont., Racing association. This means that all three recognize the rulings established by the others.

In addition the Sioux City association and the racing department of the Des Moines state fair are favorably impressed with this idea, and each of the named associations will co-operate and respect the by-laws and rules established by the others to the extent of recognizing disbarments or rulings passed by any of the associations.

In other words, if any horseman, jockey or driver participates in any questionable tactics relative to the races and the same is discovered by the judges, the offenders will be denied the privilege of racing or taking any part whatever in any events, given under the jurisdiction or management of any of the above racing and fair organizations, until after a thorough investigation he is exonerated.

This will be a special incentive to real good, clean and up-to-date racing, will eliminate the undesirable element, and establish racing and fair associations on a basis that will deserve commendation and the unanimous public support.

M. J. Stevens, manager of the Maryville, Parnell, Creston association, and H. E. Jones, president of the Parnell Racing association, are members of the board of stewards of the new organization.

TRAINING SCHOOL CLOSES.

Children Gave Exercises in Front of Normal Building This Morning—Picnic in the Park.

The entire Normal school dismissed this morning to witness the closing exercises of the training school pupils which were held on the campus in front of the building.

The kindergarten children, under the direction of Miss Margaret Miller, first gave a march and tambourine drill. Then the pupils of the fifth grade and above gave wand drills and Indian club drills. After this the training school pupils, carrying flags and singing songs, marched to the Normal park, where they were given a picnic luncheon by their teachers.

After the parade the training school children went to the Chautauqua park, where they engaged in games and also had a few track events, consisting of a potato race, an obstacle race, a three-legged race, a 50-yard dash for the seventh and eighth grade girls and a free-for-all 50-yard dash.

The parents of many of the children attended these exercises and took lunch with them afterward.

The supervisors of the training school, Misses Beulah Bruner, Carrie Hopkins, LaRue Kemp, Margaret Miller and Fannie Hope were hostesses to Dr. G. D. Strayer, Dean George H. Colbert, N. G. Neale and the student teachers who have taught in the training school during the past quarter.

After the luncheon hour there was an indoor base ball game between two girls teams.

"LEARN TO PLAY"

DR. G. D. STRAYER SAYS WE LET WORK ABSORB US.

A BAD SCHOOL SYSTEM

Pupils' Avocations Are Neglected—The Biggest Men All Have Their Pastimes.

"Most Americans do not know how to play," said Dr. G. D. Strayer of the teachers college of Columbia university, New York, this morning in an address to the Normal school students.

The text for Dr. Strayer's discourse might be said to be, "Have a sane avocation." The Americans are prone to develop a marked ability in their chosen vocation and to pursue that to the exclusion of all things else. This creates a narrow mindedness which precludes the enjoyment of many of the best and most beautiful things in life.

"Some of the biggest men in their chosen professions," said Dr. Strayer, naming a number of instances, "are pursuing some avocation, farming, writing literature, truck gardening and numerous other things, during their spare hours."

Dr. Strayer holds that the men of today are coming more and more to realize that to be of the greatest use to humanity they must not carry on their chosen work to the point of exhaustion.

The problem of the spare hours then, should not be to be amused but to engage in some avocation which will form a source of both recreation and pleasure. The American people in the search for amusement do not delve deep enough, but allow their literary tastes to be satisfied by the city newspapers and the 15-cent magazines, and when they go to the theater they demand vaudeville or a musical comedy.

"Something is radically wrong with our school systems," said Dr. Strayer, "when they are content to teach the mere curriculum and do not provide some sane avocation for the child's after-life. It should be the duty of the teacher, then, to not only teach the content of the subjects, but to make them carry over into real life."

IMPROVING SCHOOL YARDS.

Prof. Null and his wife have recently been visiting his parents in this city and his sister, Mrs. R. D. Corken of Burlington Junction.

MAY STOP BAND CONCERTS.

Persons Must Keep Off the Grass in the Court House Yard if They Wish Music to Continue.

Unless the people of Maryville keep off the grass in the court house yard while listening to the weekly concerts the concerts will be stopped. This is the order of the county court, and it has authorized W. A. Townsend, janitor, to see that it is obeyed.

The county has gone to a great deal of expense to beautify the court house yard this summer. The grass is all new sod, and it is requiring much care and attention to keep it alive through the heat of the summer. It will not stand being tramped over as old, firmly rooted grass will, and a few such crowds as the one that attended last night's concert and walked all over the grass would soon kill it.

It is to give the grass a chance to become firmly rooted that the court has made the order for people to keep off it, and unless they do the use of the band stand will be taken away at once and the concerts either will have to stop or be held some place else.

Not Going to Celebrate.

The Post and Mayor J. A. Barr have received a number of inquiries from other towns asking if Burlington Junction was going to celebrate July 4 this year. To our knowledge it is not. At least no arrangements have been made and no one has talked a celebration this year. One of the Maryville papers stated last week that Burlington Junction would celebrate the Fourth, and the report probably got its start in this way.—Burlington Junction Post.

WANTS TO PAVE

MAYOR WOULD LIKE TO SEE MORE WORK ON STREETS.

RECOMMENDS NEW KIND

Goes to Shenandoah to Investigate Asphaltic Concrete and Finds It is Satisfactory.

Mayor Wright would like to see Maryville put in some more paving, and last night he went with Street Commissioner F. L. Flynt to Shenandoah, Ia., to investigate the paving there. A pavement called asphaltic concrete has been used very successfully in Shenandoah for four or five years, and it was to investigate that in particular that Mr. Wright and Mr. Flynt went there. They returned this noon.

"The asphaltic concrete pavements of Shenandoah are very satisfactory," the mayor said, "but it is not a kind of pavement that could be put down in Maryville this summer. It has to be laid in hot weather, and as it would take at least two months for the council to take the necessary legal steps to provide for any paving, it would be too late to put down asphaltic concrete."

This kind of pavement is made with a concrete base covered with a top surface of a mixture of asphalt and flint rock. This makes a very smooth and enduring pavement. The concrete base and the flint rock make it wear, and the asphalt gives a resiliency that makes it easier for the horses that travel over it and does away with a great deal of the noise.

"Some of these pavements in Shenandoah have been down four years, and they show very little more wear than those that have been down but a year," Mr. Wright said. "They make an excellent street for the residence districts. They are much less noisy than the brick streets, are smoother and can be kept cleaner. This kind of pavement runs in front of some of their business houses and factories, and where teams and heavy trucks have stood on it I could not see that it had worn."

The cost of the asphaltic concrete pavement is practically the same as that of brick.

Mr. Wright says that the people of Maryville cannot expect to get any paving done for a reasonable price unless a great deal is done at once. Contractors cannot afford to come here just to pave a few blocks.

Mr. Wright is in favor of an extensive paving campaign, but unless the people want it, it cannot be done. The Iowa law, he says, is different and makes it possible for the councils to order in paving despite the remonstrances of property owners.

READY TO LEND FARMERS MONEY

National Banks Have About $500,000,000 Available For Farm Mortgages Under Federal Reserve Act.

Comptroller Williams estimates that about $500,000,000 in national banks throughout the United States is available for farm mortgage loans under the provision of the federal reserve act making it possible for national banking associations to lend money on improved farm lands.

Scores of inquiries concerning the provision reach the treasury department daily and there does not seem to be a general understanding that the farm loans clause of the act is now in force and makes it possible for national banks to make farm loans before the formal organization of the federal reserve board.

The estimate of Comptroller Williams is based on reports showing the capital stock and surplus of national banks to be 1,777 million dollars. Twenty-five per cent of this amount, or $444,250,000, is available for farm loans. Furthermore, the federal reserve act provides that national banks may grant farm loans up to 33 1-3 per cent of their time deposits.

Banks with large deposits will be able to far exceed the sum they could lend on farms under the 25 per cent clause, and the estimate of Mr. Williams is believed to be conservative.

Farm loans under this act are not to be made for longer than five years, and the amount of each loan is not to exceed 50 per cent of the actual value of the farm offered as security.

READING FOUR LINES AT ONCE.

Some Schools Are Teaching Children to Grasp Meaning of Whole Paragraph at a Glance.

Thomas A. Edison says he can read four lines at once. He covers the daily paper from headlines to sports in a very few moments. And he says he gets it all! Roosevelt says he can. That's the way he does all his reading. It explains how he accomplishes an incredible amount of work in a day.

And every school child soon will be able to!

This marvelous reading-at-a-glance method is being taught in many progressive schools. In another generation all readers will travel like a flash over the printed page, taking in four whole lines at every glance, and learning twice as much in half the time that they now give to reading!

At least, that is what some educators tell us.

You'd better learn the quick reading method.

Ella Flagg Young, superintendent of the Chicago public schools, and America's greatest woman educator, explains the method in this way:

"We teach the quick reading system in Chicago schools, and I believe it is taught in all progressive schools. It's but one of many efforts teachers are making to cut away non-essentials in education.

"The sentence is the unit of thought; a word is not a thought at all and it's the thought, the gist of the sentence we are trying to grasp with eye and mind. The eye can be trained with a little practice, to see the whole sentence instead of the word, and in time a paragraph may be read just as easily. The written page pictures an idea or a thought; we try to see the picture, but we do not waste time on its verbal frame.

"It's the logical way to read, in line with modern progress.

"The newspapers help us to acquire this facility. The newspaper column is narrow, and to cross it the eye travels in so small an orbit that it takes in sentences and even paragraphs without effort.

"I have all of our Chicago pamphlets printed in columns of newspaper width. When all books and magazines are printed that width, we can all keep pace with Edison and Roosevelt."

And then, perhaps, we all will be consulting eye specialists at little sooner than we do now!

Cuts 70 Acres of 35-Bushel Wheat.

James Vert is cutting the wheat on his farm, northwest of Maryville, and he is getting a very good crop. Last spring he thought he was going to lose the entire seventy acres and was about to plow it under when he decided to let it stand. It has grown to a good height so there will be plenty of straw, the heads are large and well filled and it will yield thirty-five bushels to the acre, Mr. Vert thinks.

THE BATTLE JUST BEGUN

As in 1912, With the Barnes-Penrose-Lorimer Leaders, It is Rule or Ruin the Party.

The exultant anticipations of the Barnes-Penrose-Lorimer leaders that the certain victory which they predict for the Republican party next fall will mean their victory, too, make it clear that their old-time determination to rule or ruin the party has not been lessened by defeat.

They are the men who by their course in the Republican national convention of 1912 forced such an issue on Republican voters, and in the election of that year found that a majority of the party membership preferred any fate to rule by them.

Still defiant of party sentiment and determined to cling to party control, they are now forcing the same issue to the front for the campaign of 1914.

A Republican victory must be their victory—or there will be no victory, if they can prevent it.

No other interpretation can possibly be placed upon the insistence of Penrose in Pennsylvania to continue as the party senator and boss, of Gallinger in New Hampshire to do the same thing, of the Lorimer-Cannon men in Illinois and Foraker in Ohio. Even Mr. Barnes is lured by the promise of Republican victory to deny that he ever intended to retire from the Republican state committee. He proposes to stick.

In other states the lesser factors in the boss system which Penrose and Barnes typify are also gathering courage to assert openly their purpose to make the issue in their localities a choice between keeping the Republican party out of power or restoring it to power with them in control.

They believe that both the Democratic and the Progressive parties are going down this fall before the triumphant Republican party.

They believe the popular revolt against prevailing industrial conditions will so mass the voters of the country behind the Republican party that, even with one hand tied behind its back, it can lick all opponents, singly or together.

They believe therefore that the day of resurrection has come to them, too. They are resuming their former places of prominence in campaign preliminaries so that all may take notice that they are back at the old stand and propose to remain there.

As in 1912, however, these men are blinded by their own selfish purposes.

They are as far from an accurate estimate of the real Republican thought of today as they were two years ago. Then they were four and a quarter million votes out of the way.

Looking backward instead of forward narrowly instead of broadly, they figured at that time that with control of the organization and of the election machinery and the backing of the "interests," they could pull the Republican party through to the only kind of success they desired it to have—success that meant their continued domination.

The inspiring Republican electoral vote of 336 in 1904 and of 321 in 1908, with practically every Northern state responding to the party call, had no other meaning to these scheming party bosses than greater opportunity to burden the party with their wrongdoing.

It did not seem possible to them, as they plotted against the expressed will of the party, that the Republican rank and file would form an unorganized army of revolt greater in numbers than those who remained in line, deploring and denouncing the Chicago theft but timidly clinging to a boss ridden party organization because of loyalty to its past.

Neither Barnes or Penrose anticipated the stunning blow they were to receive from the national ballot box, because they did not value the greatest asset the Republican party ever had—public confidence.

They cast it aside as of small consequence against their power of manipulation. Yet it cost the party candidates 4¼ million votes and left only Utah and Vermont in the column of Republican states, with a meager fifteen electoral votes.

Nothing less serious than the menace of a party control corrupted by its own lust for power and its alliance with interests opposed to the people's interests could have turned so many voters from a party to which they were devoted.

Do Penrose and Barnes believe that men so deeply stirred by repugnance to selfish bossism are content to vote once in protest and then meekly acquiesce?

Penrose and Gallinger would have been swept out of public place by an indignant Republican constituency had they been candidates in 1912. It was their good fortune that their terms in the Senate did not expire then.

They stand for precisely the same things today as they did then, and with precisely the same Tweedlike and contemptuous inquiry to those who oppose them—what are you going to do about it?

It will not be the Republican party of glorious memory that will go back to power if such men are the direct beneficiaries of its future triumphs at the polls—Barnes, Penrose and Gallinger will become powerful, but not the old party of patriotic purposes.

The people, however, are not helpless to prevent this effort of the discredited bosses to rehabilitate themselves.

A Republican organization whose victories would mean Barnes victories, Penrose victories and Lorimer victories will find that rank and file Republicans have not fought so valiantly against privilege of surrendering now. The domination by the "interests" for the battle, though two years old, has only begun.—New York Mail.

BOSTON BEAUTY SPECIALIST TO VISIT MARYVILLE

Ed G. Orear Looks Forward to Large Crowds During Her Week's Stay at the Rexall Store

Will Give Number of Free Facial Massages and Personal Advice in Your Home by Appointment.

An opportunity which is sure to prove as beneficial as it is rare will be afforded the women of Maryville and vicinity when Mrs. H. L. Long, the much talked of Beauty Specialist, no wtouring Missouri as representative of the United Drug Company of Boston—creators of the many Harmony Beauty Requisites and equally well known toilet preparations, starts her public demonstrations for the week commencing Monday, June 29, as the guest of Mr. E. G. Orear, proprietor of the Rexall Store and sole distributor of the Harmony Toilet Products in Maryville.

Mrs. Long contends that it is the privilege of every woman to take advantage of anything that will tend to lend a touch of added beauty to the skin; but, says Mrs. Long, "extreme care should be exercised to choose only such preparations that really do help nature in the beautifying of your complexion.

"Of course no one will question the assertion that the woman with the clean, well preserved skin is a much admired person anywhere," and, she continues, "if the woman of today would only take the care to treat the skin to the benefits of a good massage that she takes in reading the household section of the paper, we would see fewer wrinkles, and more, yet, a great many more women young at fifty."

We have no doubt about Mrs. Long's ability to offer the women of Maryville some very valuable advice, and Mr. Orear will, we feel sure, have a store full of the "fairer sex" during Mrs. Long's stay at The Rexall Store.

Mr. Orear tells us that he has a real beauty treat in store for the women of Maryville, so you'd better get ready for Mrs. Long's arrival, ladies. —Advertisement.

VILLA'S TRIUMPH BRILLIANT ONE

Drives From Zacatecas Forces Greatly Exceeding Own.

STREET FIGHTING VERY SEVERE

Federal Defenders Make Desperate Resistance to Attack of Invading Constitutionalist Army — Thousands Dead and Wounded.

Zacatecas, Mex., June 26.—According to official estimates General Villa drove from Zacatecas a force which greatly exceeded his own. Between 13,000 and 14,000 federals defended the city, while the Constitutionalists, though numbering about 15,000, could employ little more than one-half their number in the attacks of four days, which resulted in victory for the Villa troops, the taking of hundreds of prisoners and munitions and the demoralized retreat of the remnants of General Barron's army.

It was asserted by leaders here that the last act of General Barron was to blow up the building in which Attorney Majaolanes lives. He, his wife and eight children perished. The youngest child returned to find the demolished house and the bodies of her parents, brothers and sisters.

The street fighting in Zacatecas was the most severe of the revolution. The federals fought from street to street, from house top to house top, and many Constitutionalists paid with their lives for their bravery. Many of the federals threw away their uniforms and began sniping the invaders. Those who pleaded guilty of this offense were shot after being captured. The federals, already on the retreat, blew up a mine in the custom house without warning the women and children of their intentions. Many Constitutionalists who had entered the building were buried in the wreck of the three story structure.

Report of Villa.

Zacatecas, Mexico, June 26.—General Villa gave the following account of the battle of Zacatecas:

"The enemy, numbering 14,000, commanded by Medina Barron and five other generals, were defeated completely by my forces, which were aided effectively by General Natera's men. Up to this moment we have 5,000 prisoners, twelve cannon, nine trains, two carloads of rifle ammunition and cannon shells and nearly 6,000 Mauser rifles and a large quantity of provisions and other munitions of war. The enemy who escaped went in the direction of Azuas Calientes, after dynamiting the postoffice, the state treasurer's office and the stamp revenue office buildings. The explosions killed many of our men and destroyed part of the city. The dead of the enemy number about 4,000 and 2,000 wounded.

"On our part we cannot tell the losses of the battle, which lasted for five consecutive days, but I think there are not more than 500 dead and 800 wounded. Among the latter are Generals Herrera and Rodriguez, who were severely wounded. Our artillery operated splendidly. The federals destroyed every fort, the last being El Grillo."

Mediators Will Mark Time.

Niagara Falls, Ont., June 26.—As it will probably be several days before the mediators are called upon to take any further action in relation to the Mexican problem, Ambassador Da Gama of Brazil left here to join Mrs. Da Gama at Long Branch, N. J., for a few days. Minister Suarez will depart [illegible] Naon of Argentina will remain here to greet the Constitutionalist representatives and introduce them to the Huerta delegates, should this be necessary.

HEIRESSES IN BOTH CAMPS

Redmond Would Stop Gun Running From America to Ulster.

London, June 26.—Premier Asquith was asked to take special steps to prevent arms entering Ireland from the United States in response to the appeal of John E. Redmond, leader of the Irish Nationalists.

David Lloyd George, chancellor of the exchequer, who replied on behalf of the premier, declined to make any representations on the subject to the American government.

Arthur Lynch, a Nationalist member, then tried to carry the war into the Unionist camp by inviting Lloyd George to ascertain how much money American heiresses had furnished to foment civil war in Ireland, but hilarious shouts from the opposition of "where is Harcourt," reminded him there were American heiresses in both camps.

The destruction of the church was averted [illegible] by the arrival of the [illegible] who succeeded in extinguishing the blaze. Independence, Cal., June 26.—Silas Christofferson, aviator, in a biplane flew over the peak of Mount Whitney, 14,898 feet high. He attained an altitude estimated at more than 16,000 feet and established, it is contended, a new American altitude record.

NEARLY HALF OF OLD WITCH CITY BURNS

Fire In Salem, Mass., Causes Loss of $20,000,000.

Salem, Mass., June 26.—Nearly half of this city was devastated by a fire that caused an estimated loss of $20,000,000; destroyed 1,000 buildings, including a score of manufacturing factories, and made 10,000 of the 45,000 residents homeless.

Starting as the result of an explosion in the Korn Leather company's plant, the flames spread in all directions defying all efforts of the firemen.

Block after block was dynamited, but the fire, checked in one direction, was driven by shifting winds into new paths of destruction. At the start the water pressure was low and when the fight became desperate a great water main near Beverly bridge broke, leaving the firemen practically helpless.

Meanwhile calls for assistance were rushed to nearby cities and an enormous quantity of apparatus responded, only to find that there was no water to check the progress of the flames.

From historic Gallows hill, where alleged witches were hanged 200 years ago, the fire spread quickly through the shoe and leather manufacturing district, then south to the Boston and Maine railroad tracks at Jefferson avenue and eastward to the water front.

Firebrands carried into the business section to the north started a second fire at North street. A little later a tank of the Standard Oil company in the extreme northwest of the city was ablaze and presently a third fire was levelling the buildings there.

The burned buildings included the plants of a score of manufacturing companies, among them the big factory of the Naumkeag cotton mills, twice as many business places, St. Joseph's Roman Catholic church, recently erected at a cost of $250,000, the orphan asylum and more than 200 residences and tenement buildings.

The entire section occupied by the Italian and Greek colonies was devastated. Most of the 2,000 persons who had homes in that district were housed temporarily at the Young Men's Christian association building, the state armory, police stations and other public buildings.

All roads leading out of the city were crowded with refugees on foot.

NO FUSION IN NEW YORK

Pressure Brought to Bear on T. R. to Run For Governor.

Oyster Bay, June 26.—Theodore Roosevelt and his leading associates finally settled questions which, it is felt, will decide the fate of the Progressive party in New York state this fall. After it was all over Colonel Roosevelt made a statement setting forth their decisions. Here are the main points:

There will be no fusion in New York state. A straight Progressive ticket will be put in the field.

District Attorney Charles S. Whitman of New York, who has been talked of as a possible nominee of both the Republican and Progressive parties, was repudiated by Colonel Roosevelt.

Colonel Roosevelt's nomination for the governorship is being urged upon him by virtually all the Progressive leaders, in spite of his repeated statement that he would not run. The leaders said they still had hopes. The colonel declined to deny again that he would run.

Millions of Flies Caught In St. Louis.

St. Louis, June 26.—Thirty-seven gallons of flies have been captured this month by the St. Louis department of health in twenty-four traps set in different parts of the city. It was figured that 5,653,000 flies were captured. The flies captured include [illegible] which carries infantile paralysis germs from "limber [illegible] and the species that carries tuberculosis and typhoid germs.

THE ORIGIN OF "EL DORADO."

Name Means "The Gold One," and Comes From Ceremony of Ancient American Tribe.

The lure of gold has ever been the basis for brave exploits and bold adventure, and often about it has been woven the enticing web of mystery and myth to add to the zest of its pursuit. The ancient Argonauts sailed in search of the mythical Golden Fleece, while the golden apples of the mysterious Hesperides lured on the giant Hercules. The Portuguese as early as the middle of the fifteenth century brought gold from the west coast of Africa, and it was to find a sea route to the gold and spice laden shores of the far east that Vasco da Gama sailed around the Cape of Good Hope and Columbus finally embarked to venture into unknown seas upon that memorable voyage of 1492.

The discovery of the new world but added a new stimulus to the unceasing, restless search for wealth, and in the marvelous tales of pearls and jewels, rare and glittering golden ornaments decorating simple savages who knew but little of their value, the adventurous and credulous conquistadores saw a glorious land of promise.

Among the most enticing of these tales was the one the Coquetios Indians told the earliest settlers of the colony of Coro, established by Juan de Ampues in 1527 on the narrow isthmus that connects the peninsula of Paraguana with the mainland about the Lake of Maracaybo in Venezuela.

According to their stories, a tribe of fierce but wealthy Indians dwelt in the mountains some distance to the south, with whom gold was so abundant that they powdered the whole body of their chief with its dust. And thus was started the tale of "El Dorado," the gilded one, a tale which in its repeated telling grew into most wonderful fiction, but which was founded in its first instance on a fact, according to the sketch of the life and work of the late Adolph Bandelier, by Edward Albes, in the June number of the Monthly Bulletin of the Pan American Union, Washington, D. C. Bandelier, it seems, established the fact that "a chieftain who was gilded for a certain ceremonial occasion once really existed on the table land of Bogota, in the heart of New Granada.

On this high plain dwelt the agricultural village Indians known as the Muysca. They wove cotton cloth, mined emeralds, and also salt. These products were exchanged for the gold of other tribes, and by thrift and industry the precious metal was accumulated to superfluity on the table land of Bogota. On the plateau were several lakes which were regarded by the Muyscas as holy places. Each of them was the supposed seat of a special divinity, to which gold and emeralds were offered by throwing them into the water. Among these the Lake of Guatavita became famous. Near the lake lay the village of Guatavita, whose inhabitants about the year 1490 constituted an independent tribe. A legend was current among them that the wife of one of their earlier chiefs had thrown herself into the water to avoid a punishment, and had subsequently become the goddess of the lake.

When a new chief of Guatavita was chosen an imposing ceremonial was observed. The male population marched out in a long procession to the lake. In front walked wailing men, nude, their bodies painted with red ochre, the sign of mourning. Groups followed, richly decorated with gold and emeralds, their heads adorned with feathers, and braves clothed in jaugar skins. Some went uttering joyful shouts, others blew on horns, pipes, and conchs. There were priests in long, black robes, adorned with white crosses, and tall black caps. Behind them came the nobles of the tribe and chief priests, bearing the newly elected chieftain upon a barrow hung with disks of gold. His naked body was anointed with resinous gums and covered all over with gold dust. This was the gilded man.

Arrived at the shore, the gilded man and his companions stepped upon a balsa and proceeded upon it to the middle of the lake. There the chief plunged into the water and washed off his metallic covering, while the assembled company, with shouts and sound of instruments, threw in the gold and jewels brought as offerings. The ceremony completed, the chief returned to the shore and all went back to the village to close the festival with dancing and feasting. Thus was the occasional ceremonial of a primitive tribe of Indians the real basis of a legend which passed from tongue to tongue until it lured men from far beyond the seas with the vain hope of conquest and of spoils.

Direction for the Best Method of Transportation in Order to Reduce Bacteria.

With the approach of hot weather the U. S. Department of Agriculture, is warning dairymen again not to hold their milk before shipping it to market.

A practice prevalent in some places is to take the morning milk, combine it with afternoon milk of the same day and ship this combination early the following morning. This means that the morning milk is kept through the heat of the day. When it reaches the consumer, 24 hours or more old, the bacteriological count is high. This explains, the department experts say, why milk from dairies in which all the conditions appear to be excellent is frequently found to be bacteriologically bad.

The remedy recommended by the department is to hold the afternoon milk, properly cooled, through the cooler hours of the night, and ship it the next morning milk, also properly cooled, without mixing the two. It is of course essential to this plan that the thrain schedules be adapted to it, but it is felt that when the importance of the change is fully recognized this difficulty will be overcome. Such procedure in cooling and handling would materially reduce the possibility of sour milk reaching the markets.

Shippers are also urged by the department to see that the milk is thoroughly cooled, as an important step in keeping its bacteriological count low.

A FARMER'S CREED.

Farm Boy and Girl Are Best Crops, 100 Bushels Corn and 50 Bushels of Wheat Possible.

The following creed is by Frank I. Mann, in Dry Farming and Rural Homes:

I believe in a permanent agriculture, a soil that will grow richer rather than poorer from year to year.

I believe in 100-bushel corn and in 50-bushel wheat, and I shall not be satisfied with anything less.

I believe that the only good weed is a dead weed, and that a clean farm is as important as a clean conscience.

I believe in the farm boy and the farm girl, the farmer's best crops, the future's best hope.

I believe in the farm woman, and will do all in my power to make her life easier and happier.

I believe in a country school that prepares for a country life, and a country church that teaches its people to love deeply and live honorably.

I believe in community spirit, a pride in home and neighbors and I will do my part to make my community the best in the state.

I believe in the farmer, I believe in farm life, I believe in the inspiration of the open country.

I am proud to be a farmer, and I will try earnestly to be worthy of the name.

PREDICTS BOOM IN BUSINESS

Wilson Sees Prosperity Under New Constitution of Freedom.

ON VERGE OF GREAT REVIVAL.

President Makes Final Answer to Opponents of Regulation—No Postponement of Anti-Trust Legislation. Speaks to Virginia Editors.

Washington, June 26.—Addressing a party of Virginia editors at the White House, President Wilson declared that "a new constitution of freedom for business" is the object of the administration trust legislation program.

He predicted the country was on the verge of a great business revival. The president added that a temporary business depression at present was sure to pass as soon as business realized that the anti-trust legislation is sure to be enacted.

For ten years, the president said, business had been uneasy because of attacks on it. He contended that his administration was the first in years that had been the real friend of business, and he added that his administration was going to prove its friendship by clearing away all anxiety among business men over what was to come.

The president spoke with great earnestness. Gesturing vigorously, he declared that through governmental agencies and through an extensive correspondence he believed the administration to be better able to judge business conditions than any one else in the country. He compared the condition of business to a man about to undergo an operation and who fears that it will be a capital one. He added that it had become apparent that only minor operations were necessary and that it would be dangerous to postpone them.

Will Go Ahead With Program.

Nothing would be more unfair to business, the president declared, than to keep it guessing. He said the administration was in power with a definite program of corrective legislation, and that the administration was ready and determined to go ahead with its program. During the pendency of the tariff and currency bills, he said, business shivered, but there were no serious effects. He declared there was no reason to think the result would be more serious after the anti-trust bills are passed.

"Some people think the anti-trust legislation will be postponed," said the president, as he advanced a step. "Well, it will not be postponed."

His jaws snapped. "It will not be postponed because we are the real friends of business, and are ready to give business its new constitution of freedom.

"If we stop now there would be another long period of agitation, with its resulting dangers to business. But we are not going to face that danger; we are going ahead with our program now, and if the reports I received are correct it will not take us very long to finish our work."

CLAFLIN COMPANY FAILS

Receiver Is Appointed For Big Dry Goods Firm.

New York, June 26.—The largest mercantile failure in the history of the United States was precipitated when receivers were appointed for the H. B. Claflin company of this city. The company, it is estimated, owes more than $30,000,000, which at the present time it is unable to pay. Its assets are said to be worth $44,000,000.

John Claflin, head of the company, is owner of a chain of nearly thirty other dry goods enterprises throughout the country, which are involved in the failure. Receivers for several of these were named and similar action, it was announced, would be taken in the case of the rest. Their business will be continued under receiver's management until their financial affairs have been adjusted.

From 3,000 to 5,000 banks in all parts of the United States compose the bulk of the Claflin creditors.

According to Mr. Claflin, the failure was due to the unprecedented shifting of trade centers in New York city, which compelled the concern to rely mainly upon its retail stores in other cities for its profits.

"Their rapidly extending business," he said, "occasioned large capital requirements, which we have not been able to meet."

The crash came after vain efforts had been made by Mr. Claflin to induce J. P. Morgan & Co. and other Wall street banking interests to loan him money to tide over his embarrassment.

Buffalo, N. Y., June 26.—Hal Chase was enjoined from playing ball in any Federal league city in the state. The injunction was served on the former White Sox first baseman as he was returning to the players' bench at the end of the second inning of the game between Buffalo and Pittsburgh. Chase at once retired from the field.

MOYER CLOSELY GUARDED

Officials at Helena Believe Gunmen Are Seeking His Life.

Helena, Mont., June 26.—Police and sheriff's officials are convinced that gunmen from Butte are in Helena for the purpose of assassinating Charles H. Moyer, president of the Western Federation of Miners, who fled from Butte during the rioting in that city. Three suspects were placed under arrest here and locked up in the county jail and the police and sheriff's forces are endeavoring to locate a fourth.

Moyer is being closely guarded by sheriff's deputies and by members of the refugee colony of Butte miners, who accompanied him to Helena.
